

THE AESTHETICS OF CURIOSITY IN KATRINA NEIBURGA'S WORKS TOPOLOGY No 29, WHAT'S IN A GIRL'S HANDBAG? AND THE T-SHROOM

Laine Kristberga

UNIVERSITY OF LATVIA

Visvalza Street 4a, LV-1050, Riga

laine.krista@googlemail.com

Katrina Neiburga is a contemporary, versatile and productive artist from Latvia, who has received numerous awards and her works have been exhibited all over the world. The article investigates the aesthetics of curiosity apparent in three video installations of Neiburga – Topology No 29, What's in a Girl's Handbag? and The T-Shroom. Whether they are household objects of an abandoned apartment, or the contents of girls' handbags, or a weird mushroom – Neiburga's works are built around objects. Moreover, the artist seems to be intrigued by closed, hidden spaces and driven to know whether behind the closed door there is a possibility of a new dimension opened up. Although in all three works the myth of Pandora – as an epitome of feminine curiosity – can be traced, the artist's curiosity as 'looking in' can be described as the desire to know rather than the desire to see, an epistemophilia. Parallels can also be drawn between Neiburga's filmmaking and archaeology. The artist, too, perceives the objects not as detached artefacts, but as parts of a comprehensible whole. Each object in her journey of discovery becomes a readable sign and a decipherable enigma, providing rich material for cultural and social analysis.

KEYWORDS: video installations, ethnographic research, objects, Neiburga, Latvia.

Neiburga's works are built around objects – whether they are household objects of an abandoned apartment, or the contents of girls' handbags, or a weird mushroom. Moreover, it seems the artist is intrigued by closed, hidden spaces. She seems to be driven to know whether behind the closed door there is a possibility of a new dimension opened up. Although in all three works the myth of Pandora¹ – as an epitome of stereotyped patterns incapable of arousing active, intelligent responses. Neiburga's works do not offer a debased sentimentality. Instead, they activate the spectators' imagination and encourage asking questions or drawing conclusions.

¹ In Greek mythology, Pandora was created by gods to be sent to the Earth to visit the mankind. She was given a jar (also known as Pandora's box), which contained all the evils of the mankind – diseases, catastrophes, etc. Even though she was told not

Received 2011-06-05

LIST OF LITERATURE

- Barthes Roland, Camera Lucida, London: Vintage, 2000.
Baudrillard Jean, The System of Objects, London: Verso, 2005.
Fowler Catherine, 'Chantal Akerman', in: John Hill and Pamela Church Gibson (eds), The Oxford Guide to Film Studies, Oxford: Oxford University Press, 1998.
Heider G. Karl, Ethnographic Film, Austin: University of Texas Press: 2006.
Homer Sean, Jacques Lacan, New York: Routledge, 2005.
Katrina Neiburga, Riga: Latvian Centre for Contemporary Art, 2008.
Morin Edgar, 'Chronicle of a Film', in: Jean Rouch, Ciné-ethnography, edited and translated by Steven Field, Minneapolis: University of Minnesota Press, 2003.
Møller Lis, The Freudian Reading. Analytical and Fictional Constructions, USA: University of Pennsylvania Press, 1991.
Mulvey Laura, Fetishism and Curiosity, London: BFI, 1996.
Roegiers Patrick, Magritte and Photography, Hampshire: Lund Humphries, 2005.
Rudnytsky L. Peter, 'Freud's Pompeian Fantasy', in: Sander L. Gilman, Jutta Birmele, Jau Geller, and Valerie D. Greenebery (eds), Reading Freud's Reading, New York: New York University Press, 1995.
Sass Louis A., 'Hyped on Clarity': Diane Arbus and the Postmodern Condition', in: Raritan, volume 25, number 1, p. 1-37, Summer 2005.

SMALSUMO ESTETIKA KATRINOS NEIBURGOS DARBUOSE TOPOLOGIJA NR. 29, KAS MERGAITĖS RANKINĖJE? IR T-GRYBAS

Laine Kristberga

REIKŠMINIAI ŽODŽIAI: video instaliacijos, etnografinis tyrimas, objektais, Neiburga, Latvija.

Katrina Neiburga yra įvairiapusė ir produktyvi šiuolai-kinė Latvijos menininkė, pelniusi daugybę apdovanojimų, jos darbai ne kartą buvo eksponuojami visame pasaulyje. Straipsnyje analizuojama smalsumo estetika, kuri atskleidžia trijuose Neiburgos video instaliacijose: Topologija Nr. 29 (Topology No 29), Kas mergaitės rankinėje? (What's in a Girl's Handbag?) ir T-grybas (The T-Shroom). Neiburgos darbai kuriami aplink objektus – ar tai būtų namų apyvokos daiktai apleistame bute, ar mergaitės rankinės turinys, ar keistas grybas. Menininkė intriguoja uždaros, slaptos erdvės bei noras sužinoti, ar už uždarų durų jos laukia galimybė atverti naują dimensiją. Nors visuose trijuose darbuose aptinkamos Pandoros mito – moteriškojo smalsumo įsikūnijimo – užuominos, menininkės smalsumą, arba „žiūrėjimą i“, galima būtų apibūdinti labiau kaip troškimą žinoti, nei norą matyti, kaip tam tikrą epistemofiliją. Paraleles galima nubrėžti ir tarp Neiburgos filmų kūrybos ir archeologijos. Menininkė suvokia objektus ne kaip pavienius artefaktus, bet kaip visumos dalis. Kiekvienas objeketas jos atradimų kelionėje tampa perskaitomu ženklu ir iššifruojama paslaptimi ir, tuo pačiu, suteikia gausios medžiagos kultūrinei ir socialinei analizei.